AS TO SCHEDULES

The State newspaper prints a two column editorial in regard to the new schedule just inaugurated between Charleston and the up-country by the Southern. The State protests against the change and notifies the Southern of hostilities should the further change be made so that persons and mail coming from Charleston be permitted to make connection at Columbia for Charlotte instead of having to spend the day in Columbia. A change of about forty-five minutes will make this connection. We do not see how this change will hurt the business interests of the city of Columbia as the State argues. Instead of leaving Charleston at 11 o'clock at night you now leave there at 3.20 in the morning, and reach Columbia at practically the same time. It is true it puts the News and Courier in the up-country at the same time with the State giving it no advantage whatever, in fact requiring it to go to press three hours earlier than the State.

The point we desire to ask the State is as to another schedule, for we know the State is too brave and too manly to have the Southern change its schedule so as to let it have the advantage in time over its competitor in a fair and open field, and the change already made is a favor to the travelling public and that is what the Southern is looking out for. The State says: "Several years ago the News and Courier in some way induced the management of the Southern Railway to prepare a schedule similar to that now put into effect, and it would have been operated but for our protest against the discrimination." We do not see and did not see then the discrimination. We remember that schedule well. It had been announced in all the papers and was to go into effect very soon but it was withdrawn. We did not know who had induced it, nor whose protest knocked it out. It would have been a great schedule for this section, and of material benefit to the business men of Columbia, and the only discrimination that we can see is, it would have put the News and Courier in the up-country at the same time it put the State here. The reason we liked the schedule was, it gave us an early morning train to Columbia and one out in the afternoon, thus enabling the people of this section to go to Columbia, attend to business and return the same day. This is the only section in the State that cannot go to the capital and return the same day. Such a schedule would be of benefit to the business interests of Columbia, and we would like to see such a schedule put in operation, and to work against it is to work against the business interests of Columbia.

The State officials announce, so the daily papers state, that there will be no extension of the time for paying taxes. It would be well for the tax payers to bear this in mind and pay before the time expires. The farmers are in about as good condition to pay now as they will be next spring and we can see no good to them or any one else in an extension.

BACHMAN CHASEL LETTER

The South Carolina Lutheran Synod and the State Fair are now things of the past, but the courts are rocking along just the same.

No-ember is here, and no killing frost has come yet.

We are glad to say Mrs. M. M. Long, who has been quite sick for the past few weeks, is considerably improved.

The first sowing of oats is up and looking well.

Mr. Editor, we are not out of ammunition, but have concluded our argument for the present on compulsory education. As to cultivating acres for other people, we would say that every tub must sit on its own bottom, and "he that provideth not for his own household is worse than an infidel."

We would say to our Prosperity correspondent that we are not very well versed on what old Uncle Benjamin Franklin has said; but as to emptying heads into pockets and pockets into heads we would say that we are continually working our heads for the benefit of our pockets, and we have always heard that it's a mighty hard matter to empty a thousand dollar pocket book into a ten cent head.

Not much interest manifested in the election at Jolly Street last Tuesday. Only about forty six votes cast, which is only about one-third of the full vote.

The council of Bachman Chapel have let out the contract for painting the church to Messrs. J. D. Stone and J. D. Quattlebaum. We learn that they commenced work Tuesday morning. It won't be long before Bachman Chapel will have on her new white robe.

The school at Jolly Street didn't open last Monday as was stated.

Our kind teacher, Miss Cora Dominick, has returned to her school at Union. The attendance is very small this week; field work prohibits the major part of the pupils from attending yet a while.

A TRIBUTE TO J. D. CAMPBELL.

Appropriate Resolutions and Addresses by the Newberry Bar in Memory of the Late Stenographer of the Seventh Circuit.

A most fitting and appropriate tribute has been paid to the memory of James D. Campbell, late stenographer of this, the seventh judicial circuit, by the members of the Newberry Bar. Mr. Campbell was faithful and impartial in the performance of duty, and in his line of work had few superiors in this country. This fact is evidenced by the high and responsible position in which he was placed by the National Shortland Association, which position he held at the time of his death. He was ever kind and considerate and courteous to all with whom he came in contact, and in the whole circuit which he served there was scarcely a more popular man.

On Thursday morning last the resolutions published below were offered by Hon. Cole L. Blease, who moved that by order of the Court they be spread upon a page in the journal of the Sessions Court, dedicated to the memory of Mr. Campbell. The resolutions were seconded by Messrs. W. H. Hunt, O. L. Schumpert, T. S. Sease, Lewis Simpkins of Laurens, R. H. Welch, M. M. Buford, and Jno C. Goggans. Judge Buchanan, after adding his tribute to that paid by the members of the Bar, granted the order that the resolutions be spread upon the journal, and as a further mark of respect, adjourned the Court until 3 p. m.

Following are the resolutions and the addresses of the gentlemen seconding them.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Whereas, James D. Campbell, late stenographer of this the Seventh Judicial Circuit, has departed this life; and

Whereas, the Newberry Bar desires to express its regard for him and its appreciation of his many virtues, and especially his fidelity to the duties of his high and responsible position; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of James D. Campbell the Seventh Circuit has lost a faithful and efficient officer, and the State a true and loyal citizen.

Resolved, 2nd, That we recognized in him qualities of head and heart that gave promise of a bright future.

Resolved, 3d, That a page in the Journal of this Court be devoted to his memory, upon which will be inscribed a copy of these resolutions.

Resolved, 4th, That a copy of these resolutions be published in the county papers.

HON. COLE L. BLEASE:

Mr. Blease, in offering the resolutions, said:

Your Honor, it was my privilege to know Mr. Campbell. We always found him faithful to his duty, true to his trust, fair and impartial to each and every one of us. We feel that we are simply doing our duty when we pay this respect to his memory, and I move to adopt the resolutions.

COL. O. L. SCHUMPERT:

I was fortunate in being associated with Mr. Campbell during his entire career as stenographer of this circuit, and in every and all circumstances I found him true, loyal, and faithful in the discharge of his duty, loyal and faithful to his friends, and I merely rise, Your Honor, to announce my hearty concurrence in the resolutions just offered, and I take pleasure in seconding those resolutions and move to adopt them.

COL. W. H. HUNT:

I feel that it would be improper for me to keep my seat on this occasion and not add my testimony to the great worth of our deceased friend. For ten years Mr. Campbell has been with us at every term of our court. He was always pleasant, he was always cheerful, he was always accommodating. The fact is, I don't think I have ever come in contact with a person who under conditions—trying conditions, that would ordinarily make an individual petulant and cross, who was always ready with a pleasant response to any inquiry, and always cheerful in giving information to attorneys and officers of the court in his line of work. I feel that in his death this circuit has sustained a distinct loss, the State has lost a true and loyal citizen, and I feel that it would be improper for our Bar not to take some action in regard to his death, and I heartily second the resolutions.

HON. T. S. SEASE:

I am glad to have this opportunity publicly to express the high esteem that I have always had for Mr. Campbell, and I think that the entire Bar of the Seventh Judicial Circuit has always held him very high in their esteem, as a man, officer, and as a true citizen. For five or six years I was associated with Mr. Campbell, probably closer than any member of this Bar, except Col. Schumpert, he being the stenographer of the entire circuit, and going with him from place to place. I can probably better testify to his high character under all circumstances than those who have only seen him three times a year. I think the highest thing we can say of Jim Campbell is that he was a true man, true and loyal to his friends, true to his duty. He met every responsibility fearlessly and fairly. He had a discriminating mind as to right and wrong. He had a discriminating mind as to what was proper in nearly everything, not only of court, but of social life.

I desire to add these few words to what has already been said, seconding the motion that has been offered in support of the resolutions.

MR. LEWIS SIMPKINS, of the Laurens Bar: Brethren of the Newberry Bar have been kind enough to allow me the privilege to speak a few words in memory of our deceased friend. I am here without any preparation, so far as words go, on an occasion like this, but I avail myself of the privilege because it is a privilege, and I am glad to have the occasion to bear testimony to the high character of the deceased.

In his daily walk he always bore himself with the utmost decorum, with a nice sense of ethical propriety. And, may it please the Court, I don't know if there is to be found in the State a reader and quicker and more accurate officer than he was, in the discharge of his duty. In his official relations he was all that we could expect of one. And so far as the social side was concerned, I don't know any one that was more charming and more sympathetic. It was a pleasure to welcome him as he came to Court in his quarterly rounds. We always felt that the work was done as well as possible, and we always esteemed him throughout the Seventh Circuit as a worthy man. I really feel it a privilege to be able to bear this feeble testimony to the character of our deceased friend.

MR. R. H. WELCH:

I regret that Mr. Johnstone, senior member of our firm, is not here to speak in behalf of our firm, as his connection with Mr. Campbell extended over several years, and Mr. Johnstone has a way of saying things, that he would come more nearly expressing the true idea of Jim Campbell's worth than I can. I am sure, however, his appreciation of his worth is no higher than mine.

The older members of the Bar here have testified to the manly worth of Mr. Campbell, to his high character as a man and as an officer. I wish for one moment, Your Honor, to say something as to his fitness for the position he held. Your Honor may charge the law of a case and Your Honor may rule what is the law in a case; Your Honor may preside with impartiality and an attorney may fight his case with all the zeal and ability possible, and with all that, Your Honor, they go for naught if the record of the stenographer does not portray that case just as it was tried.

I have seen cases, Your Honor, turn upon the question of that indefinable something, a harmless error. Then the stenographer is worth everything. Mr. Campbell's record was a complete photograph of all that witnesses said, of all that the Court said, of all that the attorneys said. Every little interruption, little by-plays, and everything was on Jim Campbell's notes. Nobody had been done an injustice, nobody could complain. There was a photograph of that trial. And it was a peculiar pleasure that in any case that went to the Supreme Court from Jim Campbell's circuit, everybody had an absolutely fair showing.

His position in the National Shortland Association testifies to his very eminent ability, and I am glad the Newberry Bar has led off in this initiation of testifying to Mr. Campbell's worth. And it is a tribute that Mr. Campbell deserves.

Your Honor has been with him and I trust that the praise this Bar has given him will be taken up and echoed all over the circuit.

SHERIFF M. M. BUFORD:

May it please Your Honor, I cannot let this opportunity pass without heartily endorsing all these gentlemen have said about Mr. Campbell.

MR. JNO. C. GOGGANS,

Clerk of Court: Your Honor, I knew Mr. Campbell as a gentleman, as a man who stood four square to all the winds that blew. He was indeed one of Nature's noblemen, and I am glad to be able to second these resolutions.

JUDGE O. W. BUCHANAN:

Gentlemen, I came to the Bar at a time when Mr. Campbell was young, and when I was young. There was a spirit of comradeship between us. He was not a man of strong body, but of strong likes and dislikes, a man who heartily espoused the cause of right because it was right. He kept the record straight because it was his duty to keep it straight, because it was right to keep it straight.

I recall an incident in the life of Mr. Campbell that tested very well his manhood, and though fragile in body he had as strong, virile mind as any man who walked beneath the canopy of heaven. I remember well enough how he bore himself on that occasion, and what he read from his record was just as the utterances that fell from the lips of witnesses.

Not only was he an honorable man, but Mr. Campbell had gone to the fountain, he had gone to the spring whence the stream flows—not a man that mechanically wrote down all that witnesses said without knowing why or wherefore, but his most logical mind had been trained, and went back to the source and roots of our words—not a mere machine. Therefore, it was no surprise to me that Mr. Campbell, out of thousands of stenographers in the United States, was elected secretary and treasurer of the National Shortland Association. He merited it, he deserved it. And true to his instincts, when clothed with the responsibility of the position, and it was a position of great responsibility, he discharged that duty as became an honorable man; as a bright and quick servant of his professional friends, and a true and honorable representative of the Commonwealth, whose commission he bore.

I take pleasure in adding my tribute to the tribute paid by the members of the Bar, and it is, therefore, the order of this Court that a blank page be dedicated to his life and that the resolutions be spread upon it. And as a further mark of respect to the memory of the late James D. Campbell, this court will now stand adjourned until three o'clock p. m.
